Kathy,

You likely received an invite for a file review on April 5 from Jennifer Lobe on behalf of Dr. Kariko. It's in regards to a set of historical medical records that elicit several questions including what to do with the records (where to store them, with whom to share them, etc) and also the legal (and other) implications of what the records reveal, i.e. could there be litigation.

I thought you might want to be involved in the meeting, but you may not feel it's necessary. Dr. Kariko invited Tim Lang as well, with whom she has already spoken to about these records, though it was a pre-Covid conversation that was paused.

Wanted to give you some background on the meeting, in case helpful to you in deciding whether to join.

Hi, Linda,

I'm meeting Dr. Kariko today to get from her some sensitive historical medical records (from at least 30-40 years ago). We're meeting at the Seattle CJC for the hand-off.

I would like to digitize these records, since right now we believe there are no digital versions of them. Is that something I can do at the Seattle CJC? Who could I talk with there to make arrangements to use their scanner/copier?

Thank you!

Hi Inger,
Thank you for compiling the data. In addition to bringing the original documents could you also bring copies of the spreadsheet (instead of emailing)? I think the way we share the material will likely depend on next steps. I personally like the option of the secure jump drives. I worry about people having access to certain folders/sites and Teams is disclosable.
Looking forward to our meeting-glad it is closer!

Hi, Sara,

I hope you're enjoying the weekend! Attached is a brief summary of the materials. There are about 500 pages of documents, which amount to over 120 GB (all in PDF format), so I was thinking of ways to share them securely. Some options:

- I can ask IT to give select people access to the Risk Management folder where they are currently located.
- I uploaded them to the Risk Management SharePoint site, but couldn't figure out how to limit viewing access to only those who will be in the meeting tomorrow (I could get help on this).
- I explored Teams, but it looks like the option to create a new Team isn't available, yet. I could create a group chat and attach documents there, but that doesn't seem ideal.
- I can also acquire secure jump drives from IT and transfer the docs there. I believe AGO has a secure file transferring system, so I can probably provide them to AGO that way (assuming they want a copy).

In advance of tomorrow's meeting I could:

- Share a few sample docs with the group so they can see what they look like
- Share the spreadsheet attached here which attempts to provide an overview of the materials and studies

What do you prefer?

Some good news on identifying individuals who participated: OMNI seems to contain useful identifying info even on those who participated in the early 1960s studies. One individual, as I think you might know, [REDACTED] 15 He's 94 and was part of the Ditrان studies.

I'll bring the original docs to the meeting tomorrow. Look forward to it!

Background

The information included in this workbook is confidential. It was compiled by Risk Management to assist Health Services and DOC leadership with understanding the scope of bio-chemical and pharmaceutical experiments performed on individuals incarcerated in DOC institutions from the 1950s-1970s. The information is based on original source material that was discovered by Health Services staff in late 2019? and reflects a preliminary and incomplete review of the material. What is described here and in tab 2 "studies" is likely to have inaccuracies, partly due to the high likelihood of missing documents and also due to the very brief review conducted to support a prelim discussion.

Description of materials

The materials include approx 500 pages of documents. WSP hospital administrative records including annual and monthly statistical reports comprise the largest segment of documents (approx 33%) followed by the Ditrان experiments (27%), which contain detailed notes on acute patient responses to Ditrان, an anticholinergic that was tested as part of a broad range of chemical warfare testing initiated by the U.S. military. The DuPont de Nemours influenza study documents comprise 23%. The University of Washington radiation experiments reflect 14% of the documents and appear to include payroll records reflecting payments to participants of related studies including: Syntex drug study; Win Group Study, which appears to include studies of "win", testosterone and clomid; and a Battelle-Hanford Study. There is at least one mention of a THA experiment, a possible antidote to Ditrان, and a few documents related to an ethnine study sponsored by Purdue Frederick Co. to suppress unproductive coughs. Among the misc WSP records, there are documents related to consultations and autopsies, but it is unclear if they are related to individuals who participated in any of the studies.

Description of participants

The majority of study participants were incarcerated at WSP in Walla Walla. The influenza study also included individuals at WCC in Shelton. The vast majority were men. There are only two women clearly documented as participants. At that time, WSP included a female unit. Fortunately, OMNI contains some information about the handful of participants searched by DOC number. For example, the radiation payroll records indicate that 15 with DOC number 15 was part of the syntex study and was paid $10 for the month of April 1970.

OMNI returned the offender page with the following info:

- First and last name; DOB; Current age (if still living); Gender

The OMNI status page shows that his incarceration ended on 9/5/1963.

The OMNI personal characteristics page provided the following additional information:

- Middle name; FBI number; SSN; and physical characteristics

Individuals included in earlier studies were also found in OMNI. For example, 15 participated in the Ditrان study in the early 1960s. OMNI returned a significant amount of information on this individual, perhaps because he appears to be a 15 He is 94 years old.

Literature

There appears to be fairly substantial literature on some of the experiments such as the radiation and chemical warfare testing, but again this review was very limited. A brief search of the National Archives reveals numerous documents as do generic online searches.

Julie, I was planning on including everyone, but it makes sense to leave out the radiation participants (assuming they were all represented in the class action).

I will focus on Ditrin and any other non-radiation experiments (influenza had many participants, but I don't think we have many names).

I should have it completed by Tuesday of next week – is that ok?

Julie, I was planning on including everyone, but it makes sense to leave out the radiation participants (assuming they were all represented in the class action).

I will focus on Ditrان and any other non-radiation experiments (influenza had many participants, but I don't think we have many names).

I should have it completed by Tuesday of next week – is that ok?

Thanks Julie-

I am wondering if Inger realizes that she has to get at a lot of info, not just ditran...seems like a lot of work to be completed by Tuesday. If im reading her notes right, there's about 500 documents but I'm not seeing unduplicated client countI'm thinking she may need a little longer, which would be OK too....

Julie, I was planning on including everyone, but it makes sense to leave out the radiation participants

(assuming they were all represented in the class action).

I will focus on Ditran and any other non-radiation experiments (influenza had many participants, but I don't think we have many names).

I should have it completed by Tuesday of next week – is that ok?

I am wondering if Inger realizes that she has to get at a lot of info, not just ditran...seems like a lot of work to be completed by Tuesday. If im reading her notes right, there's about 500 documents but I'm not seeing unduplicated client countI'm thinking she may need a little longer, which would be OK too....
